Coach Jim Maynor Is Team Builder

Coach Jim Maynor

TWELVE YEARS A COACH, with seven of them working with the Golden Rams in Belle Glade, Jim Maynor is accredited as "certainly knowing his football" and highly regarded as an all-team coach. Asked how football has changed in his twelve years of coaching, he explained that it is more and more becoming a science, and ability to coordinate plays a most important factor. This year's opening game, displayed a fast, active team of Rams with a strong defensive. The boys will get the acid test Friday night when they play Forest Hill.

Belle Glade Downs Lake Weir 18 To 0 In Opening Game Here

The Golden Rams successfully opened the 1961 season with an 18-0 win over a determined but out-classed Lake Weir eleven. Belle Glade received and Bucky Holt ran the kickoff back to his own 28. OB DeWight Ward sent Mills inside and Johnny Bass outside for two first downs at Belle Glade's 49. Then Johnny Bass hit off tackle, got a good block from Rams and showed his heels to the Lake Weir Secondary on a 51 yard scoring jaunt. Bert Davis had his conversion attempt blocked. Belle Glade led 6-0 before many spectators had braved the rain enough to find a seat. Belle Glade had two spectacular offensive plays called back the first half because of penalties. Bobby Stratton found a nice hole from midfield and rammed inside Lake Weir's 10, only to have it called back just before the half. DeWight Ward kelly out to his left and found Kenny Martin open in the flat and hit him on his own twenty from where he went over untouched. Again the red flag nullified the effort.

The over-grown Rams were penalized 10 yards to Lake Weir's nose. Some were of the "couldn't be helped" variety. Hub Spooner picked up a rough-

Belle Glade Rams Open Conference With Forest Hill

(By Coach Thornton)
Belle Glade travels to Hobson land Friday night to take on the Forest Hill Falcons. The Rams will find themselves in the role of underdog to the strong Falcons. The coaches have the problem this week of rigging a defense for Forest Hills double wing T. Forest Hill has two powerful backs that do most of their work in 180 lb. quarterback Wayne Giardine and 190 lb. halfback John Watson.

Belle Glade also has one of their better backfields in Johnny Bass, D. Mills, DeWight Ward, Bobby Stratton and several capable reserves. The line is small as Suncoast Conference line goes, but they are ready to knock heads with anyone Forest Hill can offer. Forest Hill dedicates their new field Friday night. All in all it should be an interesting night.

Clarence Tilton Rites Held Monday

Clarence Tilton, 75, 224 N. W. Ave. 16 Place, a resident of Belle Glade since 1952, passed away at Belle Glade Memorial Hospital, Saturday, Sept. 16. A native of Northfield, N. J. Mr. Tilton came to Belle Glade, nine years ago from Miami, and began work for the city as tax collector. With a background in real estate he was well qualified for the job and throughout the years was known to be honest and conscientious in his work. He accomplished a world of good for the city in respect to collections, and peddlers in which administrative ordinances, were passed effecting itinerant merchants.

Mr. Tilton was interested in the Municipal Library which he used and donated to, and was also interested in art and shell collections. He was affiliated with the First Presbyterian Church. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maude Tilton of Belle Glade. Funeral services were conducted at Everglades Presbyterian Church at 3 p. m. Monday, Sept. 18 with Rev. H. Bickler of Lake Worth officiating. Pallbearers were W. L. Cunningham, Charles Goodlett, Tom Pennington, Clarence Thorne, Frank C. Anderson and Cecil Bell. Cremation followed at Delray Beach. Coach And Captains Speakers At Lions Coach Jim Maynor reviewed last Friday night's Golden Rams game against Lake Weir and commented on the pending game, his team against Forest Hill this week, at the Lions Club Wednesday luncheon. The coach allowed that this year's team is composed of smaller than usual boys, "but they have a great determination to win," he said. The main problem, he explained, is that many of the players lack experience and become "trigger happy" in their enthusiasm to win, coming up with too many penalties. Also guests at the luncheon meeting were captain Robert Rabara and alternate captain Kenny Martin, who talked briefly, expressing the team's strong desire to win. A quiz session with the coach by Lion members closed the program, which was arranged by chairman Bill Rhodes.

Your Pay Check Goes Further In Belle Glade

(Editor's Note—Some of us may doubt this headline... this survey report was sent special to THE HERALD by Park Row News Service, New York.)
How is the average Belle Glade worker making out financially? His gross earnings have been going up, so that he is better off, from that standpoint, than he was five years ago. But his living costs have also been rising. Taxes, rent, apparel, food and services are all higher than they were then. Where does he stand after all the pluses and minuses? From a study made by the Tax Foundation, it appears that he is somewhat ahead of the game. He is able to buy more goods and services now, after a day's work, than he could five years ago.

The Senator will be introduced by U. S. Congressman Paul Rogers, West Palm Beach, representative from the sixth district. "The construction of this mill will be of considerable economic benefit not only to the Glades area but we feel that the increased sugar production will make possible is important to the welfare of our state and nation," said Wells. "More than 1,000 workers will be employed in the plant and fields and some 20,000 acres of cane will be planted along the eastern and southern shores of Lake Okechobee. Construction scheduled to be completed before December, 1962, when the first grinding season will begin," Wells added. The $11 million sugar cane mill was designed by Dr. Arthur G. Keller, Aker Engineering Corp., Baton Rouge, La., internationally known designer and

Community Center Dedication Sunday With Open House

Dedication services for Belle Glade's new Community Center will be held Sunday, September 24, with open house from 3 to 5 o'clock, when Lions Club President Emil Wolf, representing all civic organizations and citizens who aided the project, will turn the keys over to the City. The City, representing all the clubs and contributors, will accept the building and the responsibility for operation. The initial plan for the building was conceived in 1957 as a Lions Club house. Members of the first committee were Herman Close, H. V. Draa, and George Wedgworth, who operated through 1959. The plan grew into a Community house project in 1959-60. The committee appointed to promote this included Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Mrs. Rene Holard, T. E. Hollingsworth and Chester A. Cone.

The first meeting of combined Civic clubs was held in November 1959, at which time design plans and plans for the building were adopted and plans to raise finance begun. In May of 1960 final plans were adopted. Construction began in February of this year. Everyone is invited to attend the dedication service.

Area Mourns Pioneer Citizen Claimed By Death

The Glades lost a pioneer citizen who has participated in its material, civic, religious and economic growth since 1914, with the untimely death of Joseph Arthur Wells. Farmers Acquire 30,000 New Acres For Replacement And Future Increase

"The country will not suffer from a scarcity of winter vegetables from the Glades because of the planting of Sugar Cane" is the opinion of well-known growers who are close to packing house operations and who are active in business, when asked of the conversion into sugar of large acreages from its present use as vegetable land, has raised this question.

To substantiate this opinion really it appears that celery acreage is not much less than previous years. The availability of lands for vegetables is indicated in the more than 30,000 acres acquired by farmers for that purpose since the beginning of the canelanting era. Specifically, in the triangle between U. S. No. 441-State Road No. 80 and the Canal Point road, west from Twenty-Mile Bend, one tract of 2,880 acres has been acquired, one of four sections (2,560 acres) by another group. At third, tract of 1,920 acres has been acquired for cattle—making a total of 7,360 acres of new land to be improved.

A group of vegetable farmers on the north end has acquired approximately 3,500 acres north of Canal Point. On the south side of U. S. No. 441 and State Road No. 80, there is a tract of 5,600 acres in which water control is now being installed and land preparation is

GOVERNOR'S FLORIDA TOURISM ADVISORY COMMITTEE

What Do We Owe To Arthur Wells?

Lawrence E. Will And now Arthur Wells has hit the trail we all must some day tread, but before he went left deep footprints in this muck I wonder if we realize, till we stop to think, in how many ways he has contributed to the advancement of these Everglades. He made a lot of money, yes, and lost it too, as well, but others have done the same before and nobody has wept. But Arthur came here when the Glades was new, built up a town, provided work for many hundreds, and then found time to organize and support so many enterprises, civic, religious and financial, that it would surprise you just to count them all. And with it all, behind that gruff, bear-like exterior, he was known to be a square shooter and generous as well to those with whom he worked.

Arthur got off to a rather humble start. He was born and grew up on his father's little backwoods farm at Okumukpa in Lake County, the oldest and only boy among six children and, so he learned to work. Most everybody then was poor, miserably poor. The South was still a defeated and plundered land which hadn't yet recovered from the Civil War. Arthur managed to get almost three years of study in a little country school. That's all he ever had. He came to the Everglades about the time I did, in 1914, with a survey party. Surveying was just about all there was to do here unless you fished for catfish. Two years later he decided to stay and farm.

He located in the cove between John and Marion Lock-miller and Dowell, the only other inhabitants of the lake's south shore between the two canals. I was at Okumukpa so that made us almost neighbors then, only a couple of hours apart by boat. He had cleared and planted a couple of acres of elder land, when President Will called for volunteers to make the world safe for democracy. Arthur got his father to hold down his claim while he went off to France with the 31st division and did his share of fighting in the famous Meuse-Argonne.

When he returned, his father moved the whole family here and they all turned to and cleared up those custard apples and began to farm in earnest. In course of time as Arthur and his sisters married, his farming kept expanding till he had work for all of them. Their homes, and store, together with the neighboring negro village with church and school, made quite a town. Arthur applied for a post office, and as he looked over his wide fields of Bountiful, he decided on the name Bean City, and is it called to this day. Arthur had built a town, but he had to build it twice, for the hurricane of '28 wiped the whole settlement off the map and so he had to build again.

Arthur didn't have much schooling, but he was smart, smart enough to get the help of those who could make up for that deficiency. And he knew how to farm. In spite of frosts and floods and market breaks, he somehow toughed it out, and when things looked most hopeless he'd somehow get a lucky break and come out better than before. At one time he was one of the biggest farmers on the lake, worth half a million, so his said. Then like his neighbors here before, in spite of all his experience, his was lost. Before he could win it back again his number came up and he had to leave. But it is for other things than his farming that he should be remembered. When Belle Glade was getting started as a town, he helped to organize the First Baptist Church and contributed toward building a church house here. One of the first members of the Masonic Lodge in Pahokee, he was also one of its early Masters. Later, when a lodge was opened in Belle Glade, he was a charter member here and donated property for its temple building. He also was a member of Lake Worth Consistory and Mahi Shrine. In both the Elks lodge and Rotary Club he was a charter member and was noted for his regular attendance. The first American Legion post in the Everglades was formed mainly through the efforts of himself and Dr. Buck. He donated property for the first Legion Hall, and Arthur Henry, Okeechobee and Palm Beach counties.

Research In Nursing Will Be Featured Topic At Heart Association's Annual Nurses Session

Scientific Sessions in Bal Harbour, Miami Beach, Florida.

The Scientific Sessions will be held from Friday, October 20, through Sunday, October 22, in the American Hotel. The third annual Nurses' Program is scheduled on Friday afternoon in the Westward Room.

Highlighting the nurses' session will be a presentation by

Dr. Faye G. Abellah on "Improving Patient Care Through Nursing Research," and a progress report on the American Nurses' Foundation "Study of Family Adjustments to the Crisis of Cardiac Disease."

Through nursing research, the American Nurses' Foundation is seeking new and better methods for patient care, more efficient ways of using nursing personnel, and new approaches to the problem of meeting immediate and future shortages of well prepared nurses.

Dr. Abellah's discussion will cover such topics as ways in which the nurse may participate in research involving cardiac patients; the preparation of nurses for such research; and the opportunities afforded to nurses in the field of research.

Dr. Abellah of Washington, D. C., is Assistant Chief of the Research Grants Branch and Senior Consultant in Nursing Research for the Division of Nursing, U. S. Public Health Service.

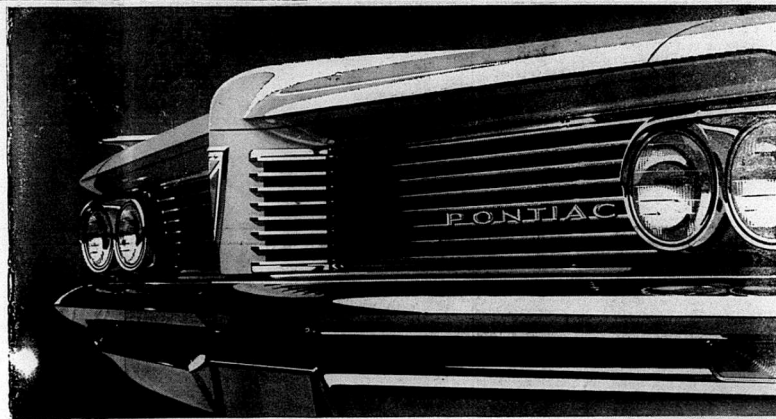

Reporting on the American Nurses' Foundation study will be Marjorie J. Elmer, R. N., Co-Director of the Study, and her associates, Alene Dickinson, R. N., and A. Teresa Fallon, R. N., Research Assistants, both of New York City.

Discussion periods for audience participation have been set aside at both presentations. Myrtle H. Coe, R. N., Assistant Professor, University of Minnesota School of Nursing, Minneapolis, will chair the nurses' program. Co-Chairman will be Helen Howlett, R. N., Assistant Educational Director, Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Florida.

Also of interest to nurses on Saturday's program will be an address by Dr. Luther L. Terry, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, on "Heart Disease Control — A Joint Responsibility." Dr. Terry will speak at a luncheon of the Heart Association's Council on Community Service and Education.

In addition, the Council on Community Service and Education will conduct an all-day Saturday session on "Compensable Heart Disease — Strain and Trauma." Featured will be a mock trial to demonstrate the medico-legal problems involved in determining compensability for heart disease patients.

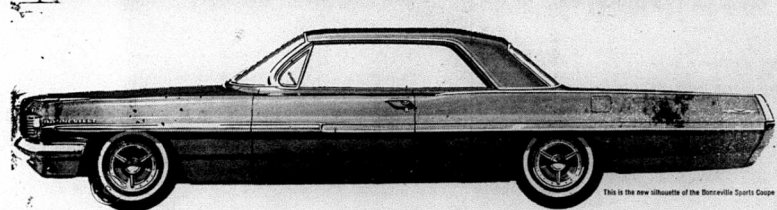

Nurses will also have an opportunity to attend other scientific sessions and visit the section scientific and industrial exhibits. Advance registration forms for the nurses' session may be obtained from the Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties, 324 S. Olive Street, West Palm Beach, or from the American Heart Association, 44 E. 23rd St., New York 10, New York. The students at East Lake School are busy selecting the activities for the school term 1961-1962. Survey forms were submitted to each student in the high school department to get student preference or choice of participation. Each student has had an opportunity to study the description of the activity from a brief explanation on sheets passed to them during Orientation period. The survey forms are being completed and during the next week the results of the survey will be shown.

Students will be placed in clubs or organizations as close as possible in accordance with their respective preferences. This method, it is felt, will give better student cooperation and participation for its reveals where the student would like to be, and what they prefer doing.

I was born and raised in the City of South Bay. I have lived here 29 years, except for two years spent in the Army in Germany.

I believe I have many friends who know my principals and the way I feel about your problems and mine . . . and the way our money is spent.

Check the records for the past two years, and they will tell you these have been prosperous years, with direct benefit to the people of South Bay.

I am running for re-election for the Council to see if the projects underway, which time did not permit, can be completed in a legal and honest method.

IN BRIEF..

The barge coming from Louisiana with harvesting material for two of our sugar mills will be arriving soon in the Port of Belle Glade.

There's no lack of interest in South Bay politics. One South Bay resident observed "We're certainly not a no-opposition town!" It's a good and healthy sign for democracy... who ever wins. Spectator conversations are lively at any eating place, store or service station in South Bay, and will likely continue through October 3rd, Election Day.

The tragic death of Chel Morgan in Clewiston Sunday is mourned by many of his friends in the area.

Our Chamber of Commerce reports 25 new members reported for their office from last Wednesday through this Wednesday, Sept. 20th: One family with 5, Sugar business; one family with 4, sugar; one family of 4, state employee, a farmer; 1, a salesman; a family of 4, county office; a family of 2, both retired. This is actually only a sampling of the new member activity in our area.

Belle Glade High School has elected class officers, annual staff members, and formed several new clubs in its first 2000-bus week. Watch for the club weeklies to follow in future issues of THE HERALD.

Ballots for election of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be mailed out soon, but only members in good standing (1961 dues paid) will be given a chance to cast their vote. L. L. Price, executive secretary reminds us.

More volunteers are needed for the PTA Gray Ladies. Fifteen have volunteered so far. A First Aid Course consisting of 20 hours is one of the requirements. For further information contact Mrs. Milton Carpenter, PTA Health chairman or Mrs. David Motes, chairman of the Gray Ladies.

Captain Rachel Rogers, formerly of Belle Glade write from her base at Salina, Kansas "Still enjoying the Air Force. I recently took a trip to Alaska, caught a 'Hop' on an Air Force plane, visited Anchorage and stayed at Elmendorf AFB there. It was a fabulous trip! The mountains, flowers, etc., are simply beautiful. Saw some Eskimos and glaciers."

An 18-year-old Glades Prison Farm inmate escaped Tuesday morning but was apprehended an hour and a half later by FHP Cpl. Glenn Blocker. The prisoner, doing five years for breaking and entering, held a razor blade to the guard's throat to commandeer a prison vehicle, later changing clothes with the guard and binding him and another prisoner, he forced them into the truck of the vehicle. The other prisoner freed himself and the guard and notified police.

Lake Worth and Forest Hill, with senior classes large than our whole High School, are picked to be the winners of the Suncoast Conference this year. Coach Jim Maynor told Lions Wednesday. The Forest Hill School will dedicate the new Hobson field this Friday night when the Rams meet them in competition. Know our boys will be in their pitting!

Bass Boys Exemplary In Sportsmanship

Johnny Bass and Tommy Bass, both half-backs for Belle Glade Rams, did an outstanding job at last Friday night's opening game here for the football season. Both boys displayed a great deal of sportsmanship and were particularly exemplary in their efforts to make the whole team look good, not just themselves. Johnny, who is particularly agile, did a lot of the leg work against the Lake Weir Hurricanes.

Pioneer Citizen
with intermittent service as a member of survey crews, he began in what later became known as Bean City, Arthur Wells' community.

Went away in military service his father kept together what farm Arthur had, and up on his return in 1919 from overseas he began in the respect of all who knew him.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 2 o'clock at Belle Glade First Baptist church by the Rev. Lawrence Stewart, Baptist Minister.

Active pallbearers were Lawrence E. Will, Wendall Lyons, Ernest Coroneit, J. H. Harrell, Walt Schlechter and C. A. Thomas, assisted by forty honorary pallbearers.

Williams-Wetherington Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements and the Masonic Lodge conducted graveside services at Hillcrest Memorial Park West Palm Beach.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Freda Wells; three sons, Joseph Arthur, Jr., and Wendell, Belle Glade, and David of Atlanta, Ga.; three sisters, Mrs. Rose Armstrong, Mrs. Louise Buckles and Mrs. Alice Harrell, all of Belle Glade; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Johnson of Anchorage, Alaska, and Mrs. Gloria Broadfoot, Jacksonville.

(A tribute to Arthur Wells on page 1, this issue.)

Land Available
under way with some available for vegetables, and/or cattle, along with some sugar cane. Adjoining this tract there is a tract of 11,500 acres bought by a group of local farmers and business men for vegetable production. Improvement of this for crops has already begun.

In the same vicinity a Co-op has secured for vegetable production an improved tract of 5,000 acres which is being put into vegetables.

On U. S. Highway No. 27, south of Okeelanta a tract of some 6,000 acres has been obtained by a local farmer with plans for progressive development for vegetables, and/or cattle.

There are other smaller tracts scattered around that are being added to available vegetable and cattle operations. So, an actual survey indicates substantially that there is still plenty of available land for the production of our oldest stand-by, vegetables, and the new industry of the Fifties, beef production, as well as the conversion of fifty to seventy-five thousand acres additional to sugar cane.

Nature's bounty in productive soil for vegetables, sugar and beef seems sufficient to date for the life-time of these industries in the Gladeslands around Lake Okeechobee. There's still more than a quarter of an acre adaptable for sod, pasture, hardy vegetables, dairying and cattle feed, with selected portions that will produce much more sugar cheaper than records of our sister state of Louisiana.

The New Look
Mrs. C. W. McDonald is to be complimented on the improved appearance of the benches in our city parkways. They're all been newly painted in a variety of bright colors and are an inviting note to passersby to stop and rest awhile.

Your Pay Check

1956. The purpose of the study was to determine how much working time goes into meeting the bills that are incurred in the course of normal living.

The typical worker, it shows, spends more of his time earning his taxes than anything else. The extent to which taxes dominate expenses is to be seen in the fact that they now take more than food, clothing and tobacco combined.

According to the national findings, the average worker in Belle Glade needs six days every month just to keep up his taxes — Federal, state and local.

What that boils down to, in terms of family income, is $128 a month per household for taxes. The figure is based on the average gross income locally in 1960.

To pay the food and tobacco bills for the month takes four days of work, equivalent to $86 per household.

For housing and furniture more days are required, the report shows. Since the working month consists of 22 days, there are eight days left. Of these, two go for car operation and for other transportation costs, 1½ for apparel and one day each for medical care and recreation.

What remains is 2½ days. Just what is done with the proceeds is up to the individual worker. With respect to this money he has freedom of choice. Although the cost of living has been creeping upward, the lot of the average Belle Glade worker has improved. His present wage scale more than compensates for the price rises that have taken place.

Feted By PTA

The Parents Teachers Association honored the 22 new teachers at Belle Glade Elementary, Coeselo, Junior High and Senior High Schools, Thursday, Sept. 14 from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.

About 60 enjoyed this social hour becoming acquainted with the new teachers as well as the ones remaining from last year. The school colors were carried out in the decorations. The punch bowl was the centerpiece, and was encircled with lake fern and yellow hibiscus. Individual cakes inscribed with "PTA" were served with punch.

The new women teachers were presented lavender altheas and the men with white roses.

With internship in the Mound Park Hospital at St. Petersburg, following graduation from Creighton University of Omaha Dr. John L. Grady and his wife toured 5,000 miles throughout the U. S. searching for a greensible location for the practice of his profession as a general practitioner.

His search ended, for the time, in Belle Glade as an associate of Dr. J. Allen Baker, effective the first week in September.

Dr. Grady is 31 years of age, is married with a family of three children who live at 649 S. E. Second Street, Belle Glade. The Grady family are of the Catholic Faith.

HOW TO SPOT TROUBLE:

Shell instructor Billy Reynolds reveals 10 trouble signals he tells Shell dealers to watch for. You should know about them too. They may help you spot trouble before it starts.

1. Under-the-hood clues. You can learn a lot just by looking at your engine. Watch for oil, fuel or water leaks. Even tiny leaks can lead to big trouble later on. You can also make a quick visual check of wiring and electrical connections. If wires are hanging loose or insulation has worn away—see your Shell dealer.

2. Sluggish battery. If your engine turns over more slowly than usual when you start up, an inspection of your electrical system is in order. A run-down battery is usually the cause of starting problems. But the real trouble may be elsewhere. Something as simple as a loose battery connection on the wire walls. Could be a leaking brake cylinder, or faulty oil seals on the rear wheels. Both can be serious.

3. Marred windshield. Feel the blades on your windshield wipers. If they're hard, they can scar the glass. If they're frayed, they can streak it. Ask your Shell dealer to check for spring pressure on your wiper arms too. If the blades rest too lightly against the windshield, they can blow away from the glass and let the rain swamp your view.

4. Deceptful tail pipe. If your tail pipe is rusted through in spots, it should be replaced. Same thing for your muffler. A worn-out exhaust system can make your car roar like a wounded hippo. Worst of all, they run the danger of exhaust fumes seeping into the passenger compartment. Your Shell dealer can take care of the whole problem.

5. "Blotted" radiator hose. Inspect all of the rubber hoses that interconnect your cooling system. If they are cracked or swollen, they can fail at any time and cause your engine to overheat. Replacing hoses is a simple task for any Shell dealer.

6. Marred windshield. Feel the blades on your windshield wipers. If they're hard, they can scar the glass. If they're frayed, they can streak it. Ask your Shell dealer to check for spring pressure on your wiper arms too. If the blades rest too lightly against the windshield, they can blow away from the glass and let the rain swamp your view.

7. Strange noises. Listen for squeals, squeaks, rattles and other mysterious noises. Strange noises are often warning of troubles on the way. So don't be afraid to ask your Shell dealer about sounds you haven't heard before.

8. Under-the-hood clues. You can learn a lot just by looking at your engine. Watch for oil, fuel or water leaks. Even tiny leaks can lead to big trouble later on. Could be a leaking brake cylinder, or faulty oil seals on the rear wheels. Both can be serious.

10. Oil-streaked sidewalls. It may take a bit of bend bending, but it's worth the effort to check the side of your tires you seldom see—the side facing in. Look for signs of leaking fluid on the tire walls. Could be a leaking brake cylinder, or faulty oil seals on the rear wheels. Both can be serious.

Any trained Shell dealer knows many more trouble signals than the ten listed here. Ask him to give your car a bumper-to-bumper inspection next time you stop in for a Shell lubrication—or any service job. One last tip: keep it good your car in top condition, when it's

Look for signs of leaking fluid on the tire walls. Could be a leaking brake cylinder, or faulty oil seals on the rear wheels. Both can be serious.

Any trained Shell dealer knows many more trouble signals than the ten listed here. Ask him to give your car a bumper-to-bumper inspection next time you stop in for a Shell lubrication—or any service job. One last tip: keep it good your car in top condition, when it's

HOW TO SPOT TROUBLE:

Shell instructor Billy Reynolds reveals 10 trouble signals he tells Shell dealers to watch for. You should know about them too. They may help you spot trouble before it starts.

1. Under-the-hood clues. You can learn a lot just by looking at your engine. Watch for oil, fuel or water leaks. Even tiny leaks can lead to big trouble later on. You can also make a quick visual check of wiring and electrical connections. If wires are hanging loose or insulation has worn away—see your Shell dealer.

2. Sluggish battery. If your engine turns over more slowly than usual when you start up, an inspection of your electrical system is in order. A run-down battery is usually the cause of starting problems. But the real trouble may be elsewhere. Something as simple as a loose battery connection on the wire walls. Could be a leaking brake cylinder, or faulty oil seals on the rear wheels. Both can be serious.

3. Marred windshield. Feel the blades on your windshield wipers. If they're hard, they can scar the glass. If they're frayed, they can streak it. Ask your Shell dealer to check for spring pressure on your wiper arms too. If the blades rest too lightly against the windshield, they can blow away from the glass and let the rain swamp your view.

4. Deceptful tail pipe. If your tail pipe is rusted through in spots, it should be replaced. Same thing for your muffler. A worn-out exhaust system can make your car roar like a wounded hippo. Worst of all, they run the danger of exhaust fumes seeping into the passenger compartment. Your Shell dealer can take care of the whole problem.

5. "Blotted" radiator hose. Inspect all of the rubber hoses that interconnect your cooling system. If they are cracked or swollen, they can fail at any time and cause your engine to overheat. Replacing hoses is a simple task for any Shell dealer.

6. Marred windshield. Feel the blades on your windshield wipers. If they're hard, they can scar the glass. If they're frayed, they can streak it. Ask your Shell dealer to check for spring pressure on your wiper arms too. If the blades rest too lightly against the windshield, they can blow away from the glass and let the rain swamp your view.

7. Strange noises. Listen for squeals, squeaks, rattles and other mysterious noises. Strange noises are often warning of troubles on the way. So don't be afraid to ask your Shell dealer about sounds you haven't heard before.

8. Under-the-hood clues. You can learn a lot just by looking at your engine.

Uncle Dan From Democrat River

Dear Mister Editor:

For a spell there after the election it looked like they were going to try to run the country without any pamphlets and free advice from them Government agencies. It was getting so the rural mail carrier out our way wasn't more'n half earning his pay.

But this is to report, Mister Editor, that the pamphlet boys in Washington has now crossed the New Frontier in force. Even the wimmen folks is now getting advice from the various bureaus on how to keep house.

For instant, my old lady got one last week explaining how she might live five year longer if she'd take some short cuts in the household chores. Being as how she's already liable to outlive me by about 10 year, I think they was sending this stuff to the wrong party.

Anyhow, this piece from the Home Economics Division — got the official pamphlet on it white that is — claims the average wife walks 262 feet and circles a bed 3 to 4 times making it up. They claim only 23 feet and once around the bed will do the job scientific. The piece also says wimmen should cut ironing socks, towels, sheets and such items and just fold 'em with. I ain't got no comment, Mister Editor, on such goings-on from the Government. If you've got any, I'm shore the men folks would appreciate it if you'd put it on the editorial page.

And about all the fellers at the country store Saturday night reported getting a pamphlet last week from the U. S. Bureau of Standards on how to judge a hearing aid. Some of them was a little riled up about a tax money being used on this project.

Ed Doolittle, for instant, allowed as how most Government business was now done on television, especial the elections, and the Bureau of Standards ought to be working on better vision and improving a voter's bifocals. But Zeke Grubb figured maybe they was preparing the voters for the next election so they could judge the debates better. Bug Hookum sided with Ed, said in the next debates he was going strictly on looks and was going to vote for the frontier man that looked the most like Daniel Boone, regardless of how the candidates talked. It was general agreed by all that that this country needs most right now ain't a better hearing aid.

Clem Webster said he ain't

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan
